

Edmonton Flier Flt. Lt Ben Clarke City Airman Leads Attack

Believed Killed In 'Chute Leap

LONDON, April 25—(CP)—Flt. Lt. Ben Clarke of 7852 Jasper Ave., Edmonton, commander of one of the R.A.F.'s highest scoring fighter squadrons based in Italy, is reported missing, believed dead, after bailing out of his crippled Spitfire over Yugoslavia.

News reaching London said Flt. Lt. Clarke was returning to his base from a troop-strafting sortie April 2 when his plane got into difficulties. He jumped but his parachute caught on the plane and when he finally shook free and plummeted down, the chute failed to open.

SET TRAIN AFIRE

The towering Edmonton pilot, whose logbook showed two enemy planes destroyed, had lately engaged in strafing German road and rail transport troop concentrations in Italy and Yugoslavia. On one of his last sorties, his blazing guns set fire to a German troop train.

Flt. Lt. Bennett W. Clarke is the son of former Mayor J. A. Clarke, K.C., and Mrs. Clarke, until recently a member of Edmonton's city council.

Flt. Lt. Clarke, well known in the city as a sports enthusiast, graduated from No. 1 Flying Training School at Camp Borden, Ont. He was born in Long Beach, Calif., and came to Edmonton with his parents at the age of two.

Prior to joining up, he was a member of the Edmonton Ski Club and took a prominent part in Y.M.C.A. activities. He attended Eastwood high school and for one year was a student in engineering at the University of Alberta. He was a member of All Saints' Church.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, Feb. 29.—Canadian Spitfire pilots wrecked five loaded German troop trains in a strafing run along the west coast of Yugoslavia yesterday, and chopped down hundreds of Nazi soldiers fleeing in panic from the blazing cars, it was disclosed today.

It was one of the most effective "train busting" missions yet flown by Spitfires over Yugoslavia, according to three pilots who participated in the attack—Flt. Lt. Bennett "Ben" Clarke, Edmonton, Warrant Officer William Ritchie, Montreal, and Flying Officer Frank Bremner, Tillsonburg, Ont.

"We spotted the first train when we were only two miles inland," Clarke said. "We made six individual attacks, raking the train from end to end. At least 12 of the cars were hit and one was left burning, and the engine was stopped and enveloped in steam."

"At a station a few miles away another engine was destroyed. From each of these two trains troops rushed out—at least 200 from the second train. Each of us fired long bursts into the carriages.

"The third train was loaded, but minus its engine. After this third attack, Ritchie and I attacked two more trains. The first was destroyed. When we attacked the last train, Ritchie gave it such a crack that I did not even have to go down to it."

Flt. Lt. Clarke is the son of Mrs. J. A. Clarke and the late Joseph A. Clarke, many times mayor of Edmonton.
